

RUSSIAN GENERAL'S 2 SONS AT HARVARD

Michel and Serge Daniloff Hope to Be Graduated Soon As Mechanical Experts.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 27.—Michel and Serge Daniloff, sons of General George Daniloff, who was commander-in-chief of the Divinsk army on the Russian front when the Bolshevik uprising broke loose in Petrograd, are now students at Harvard University.

Serge, the youngest brother, served under his father at Divinsk for one year. At the age of eighteen he enlisted in the Automobile Ambulance Division, Twenty-fifth Army Corps. Previous to his enlistment he had been graduated from the school of Prince Tenisheff. After serving there his father on the Russian battlefield he entered the school of His Majesty's Corps des Pages, a cadet school which is only for the nobility and for the sons of generals. While there he received a commission in the artillery and was sent to the Italian front.

Served as Aviator. Michel, the oldest brother, who is twenty-two, served in the Aviation Corps of the Russian Army as a private. Previous to the war he had graduated from the Polytechnic Institute of Petrograd, where he studied to become a mechanical engineer. Michel places the blame for the chaotic condition in Russia on the lack of proper education. He declared that to learn a course of mechanical engineering in Russia it would consume from five to ten years, while at Harvard the same course takes four years. He also stated that while there some of the best mechanical engineering in Russia is modeled much after the German system.

Both students claim that the day of organized government in Russia is rapidly approaching. Admiral Kolchak is a well meaning gentleman, who desires only the preservation of Russia. He was characterized as brilliant, skillful and very energetic.

Admiral Kolchak, as well as General Miller and other Russian commanders, are well known by the father of the students.

General Daniloff, their father, was chief of the military bureaus of the Grand Duke Nicholas and was in Petrograd at the moment of the Bolshevik revolution. He received a war cross pinned on his breast personally by the Emperor while serving in that capacity.

The two sons believe that their father is at his home at Kiev with his wife. They declared that they owned an estate on the Black Sea, which was captured by the Bolsheviks.

After the war both the brothers came to America to finish their education, choosing Harvard as the university in which to study. Both are studying mechanical engineering.

$4,000,000 FUND GIVEN TENNESSEE UNIVERSITY

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Chancellor Kirkland, of Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., today announced the general education board of New York had appropriated $4,000,000 for the reorganization of the medical school of the university.

While details of the plans for a new school of medicine have not yet been made, Kirkland said, they will unquestionably include completion of the present Galloway memorial hospital, erection of an additional hospital unit, appointment of an increased number of professors, and organization of a modern laboratory.

SCHOOL HEAD RESIGNS.

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—Dr. Charles E. Chadey has voluntarily resigned as superintendent of schools of Chicago after about eight months of controversy. Dr. Chadey's resignation followed the action of the board of education yesterday, which virtually sheared him of all administrative power.

NO BAN ON WHEAT.

OTTAWA, Ontario, Nov. 27.—Col. J. A. Fraser, chairman of the eastern committee of the Canadian wheat board, said today that no steps would be taken to interfere with exportation of wheat to the United States, as the board's function was to get the highest prices wherever obtainable.

SCATIC PAINS QUICKLY RELIEVED
